LAWYER HOWE SAYS THAT NOT ONLY HE, BUT LIBERTY ALSO, IS ON TRIAL, of the long-haired and short-pursed people who attended the Kraemer Hall memorial meeting being present with subponas. Mrs. Ida Hoffman, Most's Anarchistic-haired bondswoman, graced the scene with her presence.

Counsellor Howe's silver hair was combed straight up from his high brow in the correct Anarchistic style, but the blood-red rose, the flaming necktic and other signs of his sanguinary nature displayed on other days were gone.

Howe recalled Detective Sachs and

Mr. Howe recalled Detective Sachs and made him reaffirm that Schwenck, who was convicted with Most and Braunschweig on the other occasion, presided and introduced Most to the Kraemer Hall meeting. Schwenck was called in from an ante room and the officer identified him. Schwenck is a small, mild-looking man of thirty-five years of age.
Mr. Howe began his address to the jury at $1.20. He said:

Herr Most is not on trial. It is freedom of speech Herr Most is not on trial. It is freedom of speech that is on trial. A courageous jury will pass upon he mandlin utterance of that man (pointing to the not agreeable, crooked countenance of Most) before an audience made up of men and women whose ideas can never be accepted by you or any of as. There is something dearer to us, to every citizen, than anything else we possess. Charlotte Corday, having read the Bible story of Judith, who trove the nail into the head of the tyrant, went to the bath of the tyrant Marat and drove a sword into his heart. I do not compare John Most to her, but he bad a right to criticise the hanging of the Anstrolass of Chicago; but Liberty is on trial now as then, and justice is to be administered by you. No Charlotte Corday will be negecsary here.

srchists of Chicago; but Liberty is on trial now as then, and justice is to be administered by you. No Charlotte Corday will be necessary here.

I shall show you that Schwenck took no more part in that meeting than you or I. I shall show you that Officer Sachs was not at that meeting at all. I shall show you that Herr Most wrote a demial of the truth of the report of his remarks as printed in the papers next day, and said it had been done to get him into trouble.

Attention thus directed to Most, the "wop-per-jawed" little man blinked his little, rest-ess eyes and the muscles of his face twitched

I withous nervous agitation.

Mr. Howe went on, after sundry pretty compliments to Mr. Nicoll, who has held his own admirably in the running fire of wit and badinage which has been kept up during the trial, never once losing his head nor his temper.

I shall put on the stand another reporter who took stenographic notes of Most's remarks and who knows something of German and of the French Revolution. Last of all I shall put Herr Most on the stand. We have no secrets to keep, gentlemen. I lift up the curstin (lifting an imaginary curtain with both handsoutstretched). He will tell you of his beliefs and disoblets.

He wil tell you that he predicted a social revolu-lon; that it was coming; that it was instened by what he considered to be a four-loid murder at Chicago. We shall show hat when an enthusine in the audience cried out "Why not to-night?" Most raised his hand and said, "No! Not to-night! Patience! Have pa-tience!"

Understand me! I yield to none in demanding obedience to the law. But I will not concede the right of Anthony Comstock to be the censor of what is right and what is wrong in srt. What rule shall be observed by the masters of art in depicting in all its glory the human form. Shall the Knoedlers be made the victim of such an absurd law? No! Forever no!

Fanatic and fool as I believe he is, Most is in your sands, and you are to pronounce judgment upon his sols.

your sands, and you are to pronounce judgment upon his acis.

At 11.45 Adolph Schwenck was called as a witness by Mr. Howe, and Mr. Howe's brilliant little partner. Abe Hummel. examined him. Mr. Schwenck testified that he was a printer employed by Polhemus. He denied that he attended the Kraemer Hall meeting and said that after leaving work he went to Staten Island with his family, returning about 9.30 p. M.

Mr. Nicoll cross-examined. Mr. Schwenck said he knew Most in Germany. He heard him speak at a workingmen's festival at Leipsic. The speech was in favor of changing the existing Government into a Republic. The witness came to America in 1879 and met Most in America first two and one-half years ago. He presided over the meeting in Germania Garden in 1886 and introduced Most. It was after this meeting that he and Most were arrested. He is a member of the International Working People's Association, or Revolutionary party.

Mr. Nicoll—Does not that association have the clonary party.

Mr. Nicoll—Does not that association have for its object a revolution of the present social and political government by force? A. We believe in working a change by quiet and penceable ways if possible. Then, if we can't make the change in that way, we must work by other means. But we sould rather make the people see the way to the change without some bloodshed.

Mr. Nicoll read a few sections from the statement of faith of the society calling for rebellion and the destruction of the existing class rule by all means—force if necessary. But Mr. Schwenck said he was not in sympathy with that principle and he thought he had been expelled for non-payment of dues. He was a member of the Workingmen's party, of which Most is leader, and of which the Chicago Anarchists were members. It is a federation of trades. They believe in Anarchy. Anarchy means the overturning of the Presidents, Governors, Legislatures and judicial system of the day, and putting in their place a government by federations of trades. "Everybody must do then as he pleases," said the witness.

Q. Is there to be any law? A. The law of conscience and common sense. Like a man when he is sick. If he does wrong he will be sick. We think the people will be caused up to that.

Judge Cowing—His conscience will be sick? A. Yes, his conscience will be sick when he will do wrong, just as he is sick in his stomach when he does not do right with himself.

Schwenck has attended but one meeting of narchists since his release from the penientiary. He thought too much of his famly. When asked what is the weapon of Anarchy, if. Schwenck was interrupted by Herr Most, the ejaculated "The pen," Mr. Schwenck and "brains."

"De you believe in the existence of a Su-preme Being who punishes for perjury?" isked Mr. Nicoll. Mr. Schwenck replied in the negative. He bad never read Herr Most's printed instruc-as witnesses.

Mr. Nicoll relinquished Witness Schenck, and the big-voiced little counsellor for the defense drew from him the statement that he knew the punishment for perjury in this State and that his own good sense made him tell the truth.

Moritz Schultze, a compositor and sub-editor of the Freibelt, was the next witness. He is a big-framed German, wearing specta-cles and the air of a student. He testified in not very bad English that he was the chair-man of the Kraemer Hall meeting and intro-duced Most, and that Schenck was not

Court interpreter Ansing was called in and the witness repeated in German as well as he could remember the remarks of Most at the meeting, the interpreter translating the speech, sentence by sentence, into English. According to Schultze, Mest began with "Fellow citizens." The interpreter and Mr. Hummel, who is a German, had a collision as to the interpretation of a sentence, a rumpus followed, and Judge Cowing told Mr. Ansing that he should learn German if he expected to hold his place. Mr. Ansing said he could speak German, and blushed violently.

and sleeping in the Freihelt office, he has considerable surplus to devote to dress. This probably accounts for the new black beaver overcoat which he wore into the Court of General Sessions this morning. He was exactly on time, thus preceding the rest of the participants in his trial for misdemeanor by ten minutes. These minutes were improved by him as usual in reading a copy of The World, which was carefully selected from a bundle of a dozen morning papers.

Notwithstanding the suggestion of Competer Howe on Wednesday evening. that possibly he would decide it to be unnecessary to call any witnesses for the defense, Most's friends were in the ascendant in court, fifty of the long-haired and short-pursed people who attended the Kraemer Hall memorial meeting being present with subspans, Mrs. Ida Hofman, Most's Anarhe had based his defense. Mr. Nicoll asked again and again: "Did Most say that?" And again Mr. Schultze replied: "No, sir: nothing like."

Mr. Nicoll read the title of Most's pamphlet, "Revolutionist's Annual, and Instructions How to Make Dynamite." &c., and asked the witness if he had read it.
Mr. Howe objected, and a conflict ensued in which Judge Cowing said: "Stop, gentlemen! Mr. Howe, I will look out for the rights of the defendant with the jary. They will decide on the evidence, and I don't think it matters much what either of you say."

tell the jury to pay no attention to what either of us may say! If that is so we might us well stop. Junge Cowing—You may stop if you choose, Mr. Nicolk. You are to decide whether you shall go away.

Mr. Nicotl—I shall not go away as iong as the rights of the people need protection. Judge Cowing was confused and nonplused for the seventh or eighth time since the trial began. Mr. Nicoll was allowed to show that Most had instructed the Anarchists in the manual that when called as witnesses they must "answer no questions except to prove an alibi or to procure their liberty."

Mr. Nicoll asked if the revolutionary so-

Mr. Nicoll asked if the revolutionary society of which Mr. Schultze was a member believed in the use of explosives, and Judge Cowing ruled the auestion out on Mr. Howe's objection. The question was in reference to his credibility as a witness.

Mr. Schultze said, "I believe in God in a philosophical way. There is a creating power which will punish for false swearing. Where, I cannot tell. On this earth, I think."

RANDALL AND CARLISLE AGREE.

The Pennsylvanian Will Probably Be Chairman of the House Appropriations.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD,] WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 .- It is not believed that the opposition to Mr. Randall's appoint ment to the chairmanship of the House Appropriation Committee will be successful. Mr. Carlisle refuses to make any statement about the matter, but says his attitude to-wards Mr. Randall has been misrepresented on everything except the tariff. Randall and Carlisle agree.

Mr. Randall, many Democrats say, has proved his ability to keep appropriations down, and it would not be safe on the eve of a Presidential contest to put an untried man at the head of the Appropriation Committee, Mr. Randall's friends are confident that he will retain his old place, and will not antag-onize the consideration of some kind of a tariff bill this winter.

LOOK OUT, TOM PLATT!

'If Tom Platt is not careful," said a Republican statesman at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning, " he will lose his grip on Hotel this morning, "he will lose his grip on the party in this State. His influence has not been strengthened by the loss of the State, and there are thousands of Republicans who believe that Platt is very selfish in his Republicanism. He continues his bossism over the Republican majority in the Senate and holds on to the office of Quarantine Commissioner.

"Let me tell you something, You know that Senator Low was Platt's choice for President pro tem, of the last Senate, Senator Pitts was elected President pro tem. If Low was good enough for Platt two years ago, why is he not Platt's choice now? But he isn't, From what I can hear, Platt wishes Senator Fassett elected President pro tem. Benator Low's friends are very angry and are rebellious. If Platt does not fix up a compromise on this third week of Novemfriends are very angry and are rebellious. If Platt does not fix up a compromise on this President pro tem, business, there's going to be a nice row among his former supporters."

This view of Piatt's present position is shared by many prominent Republicans. Then Platt is trying to elect Fremont Cole, of Schuyler, Speaker of the Assembly. Platt is supposed to be opposed to the re-election of Gen, Husted to the Speakership. Those who are well acquainted with Platt's methods say that he would wink at Husted's re-election if he could make a deal to retain his control of the Senate. of the Senate.

The Syracuse Standard, in an article on

Platt, says:

Last winter's session of the Legislature in this state was remarkable chiefly for an undignified quarrel between the Senate and Gov. Hill over the retention of Thomas C. Platt in the office of Quarantine Commissioner at New York. Platt retained his place and lost whatever remaining little his may have had to the respect of decent people in any party, dragging down towards his level a Republican Senate.

The same plan to on foot this year, and Republican leaders, with both characters and reputations to lose, are asked to enter a conspiracy to keep Thomas C. Platt and his heuchman, Dr. William M. Smith, in office five or six years after their terms have expired. The State Senate cannot afford to impose this fly-blown scandal upon the Republican party. It would be treason to their constituents for Republican leaders to abet or sanction it.

Does any Republican retain any shadow of allegiance to Platt because he supposes that Platt is loyal to the Republican party? No greater mistake could be made. Platt's disgraceful schemes are planned for himself or his heachmen only. He is a traitor who is too cowardly and too avaricious to hang himself while the thirty pieces of sliver last. The Republican party must do the hanging, and there will be room on the gallows for those Republicans who might be leaders, but prefer to be bosslets under Platt.

THE MURDERED JOCKEY.

Spellman's Movements on the Night He Re ceived His Death Injuries.

Sergt. Schmittberger and Detective Haggerty, of the West Thirtieth street station, have traced the movements of Jockey Spellman almost up to the time he received the beating which caused his death.

Spellman was seen at 1.30 a. M. on Tuesday. Nov. 15, with a little man at the corner of Sixth avenue and Thirtieth street by two gentlemen. After saluting these gentlemen Spellman went down the avenue with his companion. At 5.45 the same morning Spellman went into the Windermere Hotel, at Sixth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, and, after lying down for a while, went out. He returned at 7 o'clock. Shortly afterwards a chambermaid discovered him covered with blood and with a wound in his forchead and both legs badly blackened. He was subsectively afterward to the Beauty of the Beauty of the street was the street of the street was the street of the stree quently removed to the Brower House, but got out again and wandered around the neighborhood. After he returned to the hotel, it was found that he was dangerously injured and he was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

A brother of Spellman arrived from Chicago last night and took charge of the remains.

Mr. Berrian, a Sixth avenue druggist, sat with Spellman at the hospital and saw that he

CASPERFELD & CLEVELAND, A LITTLE DOG WITH A VERY BIG BARK

The "Bowery" Clothing Concern which recently drew a comparison between itself and JOHN L. SULLIVAN reminds us very much of the fable of the FROG who tried to swell himself to the dimensions of an OX. The catastrophe that overtook the FROG should be a warning to the "Little Dog" on the "Bowery" not to "blow" himself out to such a dangerous extent. The Frog, so the fable read, became so puffed out with his own wind that he really believed in his imaginary size and considered the rest of the animal kingdom very "Small Fry" indeed, but it was ALL WIND, There was a sudden collapse and "where, oh where," was the Frog!
